WAS TO GIVE BRIDE AWAY.

Miss Sartoris Cabled Brother of Broken Engagement.

Washington, June 23.—The cable dispatch announcing that the wedding of Miss Vivian Sarioris and Arenthaid Basfour would not take place, was anticipated here by the near friends of the young laily as a previous cablegram had been received by Algermon Sartoris last Tuesday, the day before he was booked to sail for London to give his safer in marriage. He said at the time to some friends near by that the meessage was to the effect that he need not make the trip, as the marriage had been postponed.

The ceremony as originally panned, was to have taken place July 11 at the home of Mrs. Gordon, sister of the late Algernon Sartoris, and aunt of the bride. It was understood that the first days of the honeymoon would be spent in Scotland, and that shortly afterward the couple would come to this country to visit Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Sartoris.

The Grant residence on Massachusetts avenue is closed for the summer and both Mrs. Grant and her daughter are at Cobourg, Canada. LETUBLIC SPECIAL

Rio Grande Westers Boads.

Announcement is made by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Spencer, Trask & Co. of New York that subscriptions will be received for a part of the first consolidated mortgage 4 per cent 20-year gold bonds of the Rio Grande Western Raliway Company, at 86 per cent and accrued interest to date of delivery, at which price the bonds net 4:19 per cent upon the investment. The present issue is $6,000,000, but a considerable part of this amount has already been placed. The bonds are secured by a first mortgage, either directly on railway branches or on all of their securities, on 173 miles of railroad in operation, and further by a mortgage on 438 miles of main line and other road and all other existing property of the railway company, subject, as regards the latter, to a prior lien of $15,200,000 first mortgage 4 per cent bonds, for the retirement of which an equal amount of these consolidated mortgage bonds is reserved. These bonds are also secured by a first lien on $10,000,000 stock of the Utah Fuel Company and they will also be secured by a first lien on over $1,350,000 of new equipment, ordered and mostly delivered. The mortgage will also be come a first lien upon all new property acquired with the proceeds of any of these bonds. President Palmer of the Rio Grande Western Railway Company submits a statement showing that in the fiscal year ended June 20, 1900, the company earned a surplus over all fixed charges (including an allowance for the annual interest on the present lesse of consolidated mortgage bonds) of $22,257. General Palmer says that the physical condition of the road has been brought to a high standard of excellence. As is known, the Rio Grande Western has become an integral part of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad system. The subscription books to the bonds offered for sale will be opened on June 25 and closed at 3 p. m. or earlier on the same date. Bonds awarded ere to be paid for on or before July 10.

"Damage to mains, pipes and metallic ontrivances by electric action," said B. C. Adkins, chief engineer of the waterworks distribution system, "is becoming so much of a nuisonce that something must be done to protect property. The worst effects of dectrolysis are noticeable in the vicinities of the railway powerhouses. Lately many examples of the detrimental effects have come to our notice.

Another specimen is a brittle fire plug of electrical effect on lead pipe are also exhibited. Lead pipes are gradually gnawed away by the current.

"Recensly we have received more complaints than ever," said Mr. Rolfe. "Damlage is being done to mains and pipes in the neighborhood of powerhouses. Mr. Adkins addressed the American Waterworks' Association last week in New York on the St.

SHE WAS HUSBAND'S ATTORNEY IN CASE.

Missouri Woman Insisted on Defending Her Spouse in Suit Brought by Her Father.

The Court suggested that they employ a regular attorney and they said if Mr. Bert ortoni, ex-Republican candidate for Cir-Nortoni, ex-Republican candidate for Cir-cuit Judge, would act for them he could have the job, but Mr. Nortoni had pre-viously been employed by Mr. Quinn. She Made Impassioned Speech.

The lady attorney followed with an impassioned effort that contained 100 words of argument to one detailing the facts. But everything went.

The Court, who is a gallant man, and with some leaning toward woman's rights, refused to consider objections of plaintiff's counsel. When her father was turned over to her for cross-examination the fur began to fly. If there had been a stenographer on the case he would have committed suicide.

If he made a statement the examiner thought was at variance with the facts she didn't hesitate to tell him so, and the crowd cheered her.

Mr. Nortoni tried to protect his client, but was curtly admonished by counsel for the other side that he had had his say with the witness, and it was his duty to keep still. Not wishing to precipitate a scene, he wisely subsided. It took a day to examine the witnesses.

Proud of His Wife.

The defendant smiled proudly at his wife's efforts, but said nothing.

The lady, who seemed to have all the details of the controversy well in hand, was exceedingly searching in her cross-examinations, and made several of the witnesses come round to her way of thinking through sheer weariness. The court quit expostulating with her.

Knowing she had a clear track, she turned on a full head of steam, and the witnesses for plaintiff tried to grin and bear it. One of them was bitterly reproved for having left his corn crop to "come here and testify against an honest man."

Attorney Nortoni, however, gut even at the windup. The Court explained to the female counsellor that Nortoni would open and close and she could speak between times. She assented on condition that sie would be allowed as much time as herfather's lawyer. Nortoni took two-thirds of his time in expressing what was on his bosom, and then left the courtroom for the avalanche be knew would follow. It came all right, but he didn't go back to reply to it.

Jury split the Difference in finding a verdict, and both sides felt like victors. Within five minutes afterwards, Mrs. Mulins and her husband sought to employ Mr. Nortoni to bring an action against Mr. Nortoni promised to accept the case provided the lady would assist him and the compact was agreed to in a flash. The parties live in Russell Township. Quinn is a physician and a mining expert. His daughter is a well-educated woman, and is the real executive head of her home. She speaks of herself as being "a chip of the old block." by which she means she has all her father's determination and courage.

The structure is 30 feet by 20 feet, and was erected five years ago as a concluding argument in a dispute as to whether the dust from the Gavin carpets came into the May yard when shaken.

Mrs. May stated yesterday that dust and refuse from the upper floor of No. 1845 were thrown into her yard before the fence was built, and that the erection of the boarding had effectually stopped the practice. She added that when the fence wears out she intends building an iron one to take its place.

Miss Gavin stated that she was hopeful of having the fence removed, as it cut off light and air from her kitchen. She hoped to have something done, she said, under the provisions of the new law forbidding such structures, and denied that anything had next-door neighbors.

Chicago, Iii., June 22.—Millions of eyes are watching the granary of the world—the great West and Northwest—for signs by which to tell whether the harvest of 1591 is to be great or small. Handreds of experts inspecting the ripening fields of winter wheat and the areas of growing spring wheat corn, oats and rye are forecasting the task of the sickle and the reaper.

Statisticians Lo-day are figuring the approximate yield of breadstuffs that cannot be garnered for months. All the factors in the production of the international dish of bread, save one, are known. That one mystic ingredient is the weather. of the great cereal staples. From the most authentic sources, these general statements concerning the future crops have been carefully compiled:

Present conditions, according to experts, point to one of the largest wheat crops in recent years. Taken all it all, winter and apring wheat conditions are excellent and, by many, the total crop for 1981 is placed at 690,000,000 or 790,000,000 bushels; in 1892, 547,000,000 bushels and in 1888 675,000,000 bushels and in 1888 675,000,000 bushels. Thus it will be seen that the prospective yield is more than the average.

Judging by prices in the past, it is estimated that the crop of 1901, should it reach the figures given, would sell for about 5 cents a bushel, or a total value, in round numbers, of $425.000,000 to $450.000,000. The Old and Well-Known Route to
